Litigation and Dispute Resolution experience

Chief Justice of Western Australia - 2006-2018

During the 12 years he served as Chief Justice, Martin CJ sat in cases across all areas of the Court's work including criminal trial work, commercial trial work and appellate work. He managed a docket of cases in the Commercial and Managed Cases List and also managed the Commercial Arbitration List between 2012 and his retirement from the court in 2018. He also served as mediator in a number of the more complex and significant commercial cases before the court.

During his time as Chief Justice, Martin CJ was actively involved in community engagement and published approximately 150 speeches and papers on a wide variety of topics associated with the justice system. In addition, he made many other shorter speeches and presentations which have not been published. The published speeches and papers are available at: <http://www.supremecourt.wa.gov.au/>

Barrister - 1988-2006

As junior counsel (1988-1993) and Queen's Counsel (1993-2006), Mr Martin provided advice and representation in all areas of commercial dispute resolution including:

- Litigation relating to major resource development projects, including oil and gas, iron, gold and other precious metal projects.
- Litigation relating to infrastructure access and charges - relating to gas pipelines, rail and port facilities.
- Corporate and commercial disputes including takeover litigation, oppression proceedings and insolvency.
- As counsel in domestic and international arbitration (see details separately provided).
- Regularly appearing in mediations as counsel and less frequently as mediator.

Between 2001 and 2003, Mr Martin was appointed as Senior Counsel assisting the Royal Commission into the Collapse of the HIH Group of Insurance Companies. In that capacity, Mr Martin was the senior lawyer responsible for the investigation and conduct of a wide-ranging inquiry into various commercial aspects of the failure of a group of insurance companies which had a significant impact upon a number of aspects of commercial activity in Australia. As a consequence of the findings of the Royal Commission, the Commonwealth government, as the major creditor, was able to pursue claims which resulted in the recovery of over $600,000,000.

Solicitor and Junior Counsel - Keall Brinsden & Co - 1980-1988

Acted as solicitor advocate and junior counsel appearing with senior counsel in a wide range of commercial disputes involving significant amounts in issue including:

- A dispute relating to the value of iron ore for the purposes of royalty payments due under an agreement for the sale of tenements which were the foundation of Australia's iron ore industry - involving litigation in the Supreme Court of Western Australia, an appeal to the Privy Council, and an arbitration.
- A dispute between Western Australia's largest coalmining company and the State-owned energy producer with respect to the purported termination of a long-term coal supply contract, with potentially profound implications for both parties and the State.
- A series of disputes between Australia's major airlines and a new entrant to the Australian airline industry.
- The provision of advice and representation to many of Western Australia's media outlets.

During this period, Mr Martin appeared as instructing solicitor and junior counsel (often without a leader) in courts at all levels of the State judicial hierarchy, the Federal Court, the High Court of Australia and, on two occasions, the Privy Council (prior to the abolition of appeals to that body from Australia).

Director - Review Section, Department of Immigration & Ethnic Affairs, Canberra - 1979-1980

As inaugural Director of the Review Section of the Department of Immigration & Ethnic Affairs, appeared as counsel representing the Minister in a significant number of deportation cases before the Administrative Appeals Tribunal. Acted as the Minister's representative instructing counsel in relation to litigation involving the Minister and Department.

Commercial Arbitration

Judicial work relating to Arbitration

Martin CJ managed the Commercial Arbitration List between its creation in 2012 and his retirement from the court in 2018. Over that period, he published reasons for decision in a number of cases involving commercial arbitration.

While serving as Chief Justice, the following papers were published:

- After dinner address at the 10th Anniversary Conference of the Asia-Pacific Regional Arbitration Group - March 2014
- Launch of "Australian Commercial Arbitration" by Hockley et al - June 2014
- Opening address at the 5th Australian International Arbitration Conference - November 2017 available at <http://www.supremecourt.wa.gov.au/>

Participation as counsel in commercial arbitration

During his time in legal practice, Mr Martin appeared extensively in domestic and international commercial arbitration in the fields of:

- Building and construction
- Major civil engineering works
- Resource pricing and long-term supply contracts (iron ore, gas and tantalum)
- Disputes relating to mine development and management
- Ship building

Some of these cases occupied months of hearing and involved very substantial amounts in issue.

Fellowships

Mr Martin is a Fellow of the Resolution Institute (Australia), Ambassador of the Resolution Institute (2019 – Current), and a Fellow of the Asian Institute of Alternative Dispute Resolution. He has been certified as a Grade 1 Arbitrator by the Resolution Institute

Mediation

While in legal practice, Mr Martin appeared regularly on behalf of clients engaged in mediation, and, following his appointment as Queen's Counsel, on occasions served as mediator in relation to complex commercial disputes.

In 2013, Mr Martin completed the mediation programme (5 days) offered by Harvard Law School. After completing that programme, he regularly conducted mediations in the more complex cases before the Supreme Court of Western Australia. .

In 2018, Martin CJ gave the inaugural annual ADR address "Alternative Dispute Resolution - a misnomer?" (at <http://www.supremecourt.wa.gov.au>)
